

IT'S OK TO KEEP WEARING A MASK

While people who are fully vaccinated no longer have to wear a mask in most settings, some people may make a personal decision to do so. It's important to respect their choice and be supportive.

Why Some People May Still Use a Mask

- They or a family member may be immunocompromised
- They are a caregiver to someone ill or elderly
- They are being cautious in public settings
- They may not be fully vaccinated yet
- They are trying to stop the spread of germs from a cold or the flu
- They are setting a good example for children

Good to Know

Being fully vaccinated means that two weeks has passed since your second dose of the Moderna or Pfizer or your one dose of the Johnson & Johnson vaccine. Fully vaccinated people have a very low risk of contracting or spreading COVID-19.

If you are not fully vaccinated, it's important to wear a mask, follow social distancing rules with a distance of 6 feet away from other people, wash your hands often and avoid touching your face. If you are feeling sick, stay away from others and separate yourself from people who live with you in your home.
